Free space for creativity

The development of children is particularly important to us. Our new KIDS line promotes the development of motor skills in a playful way.

But much more important:

The toy tools are made for small adventures and big experiences. After all, the most sought-after toys for children are often everyday objects, which have long been commonplace for us.

Concentration on the essentials: the fun!

But young people are more creative. They are adventurers, explorers, dreamers, tinkers. They are curious and go through their world with open eyes. We want that to stay that way for a long time. That even the next generation can have fun without a console and smart phone. That they can also get excited about the little things. That they too know how good it feels to build or repair something.
